The search for intelligent life in the Universe ("SETI"), and why it will fail

ABSTRACT
The union of space telescopes and interstellar spaceships guarantees that if technological extraterrestrial civilizations were nearby or common, then someone would have come here long ago. Thus, the prospects for SETI are pretty dim.